Diamond Phil Weinseimer, the former labor leader who was sent to Sing Sing for twenty months for extorting $2,700 from a plumbing contractor to call off a strike, has opened an office for the sales the stock is around the house somewhere yet."

E. J. Selley, mentioned by Weinseimer, was the man who figured in the testimony at Diamond Phil's trial as having introduced him to a contractor who was held used him strike, has opened an office for the sale of stocks and bonds at 80 Wall street up. under the name of the Seaboard Underwriters Association. His name does not appear on the door of the office or on the the stationery of the Seaboard Underwriters association, and to one visitor he dechired his name was P. C. Weinseimer, no connection of Diamond Phil.

To a Sun reporter Diamond Phil inisted that he was not covering up his identity and that to any one who came in and asked him frankly if he were the former president of the Building Trades Alliance he would admit that he was.

Weinseimer, who has lost little of his former urbane demeanor and perfect assurance, wore when the reporter saw him a red rose on the lapel of his coat, a diamond and opal scarfpin and a diamond ring containing four large stones. He said that he had been "home" two years and that until about two months ago, when he opened his present office, he was buying and selling real estate, in which he said he had always been something of an expert.

"I am engaged in a business now that is perfectly legitimate and I do not ask public for a cent," said Diamond "It is the usual underwriting ness, and I take the stock and bonds of corporations and try to sell them on the usual basis of 214 per cent. commission. I know where I can dispose of the bonds and stock I am selling, and for that reason I haven't advertised in any pubpations or had any advertising matter printed. The only printed matter we have is our letterhead."

Weinseimer then showed one of the Sesboard Underwriters letterheads, which

"In spite of what I have gone through there are still many persons in New York who will back me up in anything I do and would put up a $100,000 bond if necessary as surety that anything I say I will do," said Weinseimer. "Of course when I got into trouble people that I thought I could rely on ran like rate, and they were the ones who havuid have stuck to me. Now I am starting out on a new business career and I think I am entitled to be left alone.

"I never got a dishonest dollar in my life and I'm not going to begin now. I was the victim of one of the most powerful conspiracies ever formed to railroad a man to jail. I fought that conspiracy for three years after I had been convicted and I never stopped fighting while I had a chance. I spent all I had carrying the case up to the Court of Appeals, and then I had to submit. I was out on bail all the time and there were people who told me to run for it while I had a Brookline chance. I always said that if my conviction was upheld I would go to prison and pay the penalty because I had a wife and it. They were well provided for when I to be a most happy one. Three years after the marriage a daughter was born, lumber department, and now I am making a new start so that they will be well provided for in the future. I've got a clined that way. When he died my mother and myself were his only heirs and he left us enough to make us comfortable. I was just ready to enter the high school when I ran away to sea at the age of 15 and went to England. After I came the age of heach my father put me in the plumbing business, and I guess I must have had some ability, because in a few years I was president of the plumbers union. The men recognized me as a leader and I had brains enough not to do anything criminal. The chief reasons I went to prison were that the public mind was criminal. The chief reasons I went to prison were that the public mind was inflamed against unions because of the Sam Parks case, and other union leaders who wanted me out of the way turned against me and made me the goat.

Sam Parks case, and other union leaders who wanted me out of the way turned against me and made me the goat.

"The twenty months I was in Sing Sing seems like a dream to me now, and I cherish no resentments or regrets. Of course I regret that I had to serve a prison term, but I mean I have wiped my past record off the slate and am regarding it now as a thing that never happened. There are men who have been in prison who have gone out and continued to live a life of crime, saying that they knew what have gone out and continued to like his before and would be caused their fall before and would be able to continue in that kind of life and avoid such mistakes in the future. In contrast to this kind of man is the one who may have been tempted to do a thing that didn't seem right with the feeling.

Little is known in this country about M. Borel aside from what is told on the marriage return. This says that he is a widower, born in Paris, the son of Paul Borel and Louise De Forneville. The bride was born in Chicago. who may have been tempted to do a thing that didn't seem right with the feeling that no one cared whether he did it or not and that no one would suffer from his act. When it is brought home to this man and he is sent to prison to pay the penalty he leaves the prison determined to lead an upright in the future and make sure that no one will ever be able to criti-cise what he does. That's the kind of man I am. I never intentionally caused any one to lose a cent, and I will be more

WHOIESALE PRICES.

Monthly Increase From September 1, 1906, up to March, 1910.

WASHINGTON, June 12 .- The annual eport on wholesale prices just published by the bureau of labor. Department of Commerce and Labor, shows that whole sale prices in 1999, as measured by the : 57 odities included in its recent investigation, advanced 3 per cent. over the wholesale prices in 1908, but with this advance they were still 2.3 per cent. below the average of 1907, the year of highest prices within the period 1890

Wholesale prices in 1909 were 14.5 per cent. higher than in 1900; 41 per cent. higher than in 1897, the year of the lowest prices from 1890 to 1909; 12 per cent. higher than in 1890, and 26.5 per cent. higher than the average price for the ten years 1880 to 1890.

The highest point reached in 1907 was in October, from which month there was a general decline until August, 1908. Beginning with September, 1908, there has been a monthly increase without a break up to March, 1910. Wholesale prices in March, 1910, were higher than at any time in the preceding twenty years, being 7.5 per cent. higher than in March. 1909, 10.2 per cent. higher than in August, 1908; 21.1 per cent. higher than the average yearly price of 1900, 49.2 per cent. higher than the average yearly price of 1897. and 33.8 per cent, higher than the average price for the ten years 1890 to 1899.

Of the 257 articles for which wholesale prices were obtained 125 showed an increase in the average price for 1909 as compared with 1908, 31 showed no change

PLEA FOR A TARIFF BOARD. Commercial Bodies and Business Men Join in the Bemand.

The National Tariff Commission Assoiation, which includes more than seventy of the principal commercial bodies of the ountry, has begun a movement to secure legislation by the present Congress which will prevent a tariff agitation being continued through the summer and figure in the Congress elections. In this the association has been backed up by some prominent business men, the legislation favored generally being along the ine of a tariff commission.

If Congress does not settle the question at this session by providing a new and efficient way of handling the tariff the country will suffer. George C. Clark, president of Tefft. Weller & Co., said:

I have been heartily in favor of a tariff commission for years. Such a board absolutely necessary to keep tariff making out of politics and put in it the hands of a body of men who will not have other busines to take their time. Congress and the people should not stop to discuss schedules but should settle the question right now by having enacted legislation which will place the whole subject in the hands of a competent tariff board or commission.

T. B. Carpenter, treasurer and manager of the Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Company

I know from personal experience that the business men of New York city have about reached the end of their patience. Further tariff agitation must be prevented. A competent board composed of experts would make a careful study of cost of production and other conditions and would solve the tariff problem without causing a ripple upon the commercial waters.
